This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

"Books are men of higher stature,
And the only men that speak aloud for future times to hear."

"Let us consider how great a commodity of doctrine exists in books; how easily, how secretly, how safely they expose the nakedness of human ignorance, without putting it to shame. These are the masters who instruct us without rods and ferrules, without hard words and anger, without clothes or money. If you approach them, they are not asleep; if investigating you interrogate them, they conceal nothing; if you mistake them, they never grumble; if you are ignorant, they cannot laugh at you."—Richard de Bury.

"Books should to one of these four ends conduce
For wisdom, piety, delight, or use."

HISTORICAL PREFACE.

The need of a Public Library in the City of Indianapolis had long been felt by many of her citizens. The libraries to which they had access were few and unsatisfactory; few in regard to the number of inhabitants, and unsatisfactory in the manner in which the books could be used.

They were first the State Library numbering at the present time ten thousand volumes, one-third of which are duplicates; this library is rich in its departments of state and public documents, and numbers in its collection a few rare and illustrated books, but in any one department it lacks that completeness that gives it value in the eyes of the student—for whom alone it is intended—as the volumes are not allowed to be taken away.

Next in size, and in its completeness in the department of law, greater in importance, is the Law Library numbering sixty-five hundred volumes, these also are for use only in the building.

The Marion County Library, with a miscellaneous collection of two thousand volumes, one-fourth of which are public documents, is open to all citizens of the county, for six hours in the week, on payment of an annual sum of one dollar; the amount received from this source, with an annual appropriation ($200) from the county, barely pays for the services of the librarian and the repair of the books, and the library has remained of the same size for a number of years; the well-read volumes show that this, the nearest approach to a Public Library, under a more liberal management would have supplied a pressing need in the wants of the city.

Less than a thousand volumes, bearing the name of the Township Library, are little known and never used, and a slight examination of their contents show them to be incomplete sets and mutilated volumes.

In the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. are less than four hundred volumes of a character not likely to attract.

There was then but one library of two thousand volumes at all suited to the wants of the public, the others were for the few.

On Thanksgiving day, November 26, 1868, Rev. Hanford A. Edson preached a sermon, which while it breathed throughout his strong regard and care for the welfare of the city, was, to use his own words, "a plea for a Public Library." "The great want of the city," said Mr Edson, "the deficiency that is really fatal to its character, has not yet been pointed out. I mean the want of a Public Library. No community can be respectable, the grandest city must be mean, without books. No one can have books enough of his own. Only a few can have a private library even of the smallest dimensions, while those whose own collections are the largest must continually mourn because they are so small. Provision must be made by which the citizens may borrow books, or to a very hurtful degree they will be compelled to do without them." "This," said he, at the close, "will be a true Thanksgiving day for me, if I have induced any to strive for, or even ardently desire a Public Library."

This appeal of Mr. Edson's led to the organization of the Indianapolis Library Association, the aim of which was to make a collection of books, eventually to become the nucleus of a Public Library; to this end the capital stock of the Association was divided into shares of twenty-five dollars each, the original subscribers agreeing to pay one hundred and fifty dollars in annual instalments of twenty-five dollars; with a membership of one hundred and thirteen, and an admirably selected library of nearly four thousand volumes, the Association under the careful, judicious management of its officers, was becoming not only a source of entertainment and instruction to its members, but also to many of the citizens, who were liberally granted the same privilege on payment of a small fee.

On the 3d of March 1871; the law under which the city schools are at present organized was passed by the legislature, Section 4th, Article 3d of which authorizes the Board of School Commissioners of any city of thirty thousand or more inhabitants—"To levy a tax each year of not exceeding one-fifth of one mill on each dollar of taxable property assessed for city taxes by the City Assessor for the support of free libraries in connection with the common schools of such city, and to disburse any and all revenue raised by such tax levy in the purchase of books for and in the fitting up of suitable rooms for such libraries, and for salaries to librarians; also to make and enforce such regulations as they may deem necessary for the taking out from and returning to, and for the proper care of all books belonging to such libraries, and to prescribe penalties for the violation of such regulations."

This tax was levied by the Board of School Commissioners of this city, and a committee consisting of Dr. H. G. Carey, Dr. T. B. Elliott and Austin H. Brown, Esq., were appointed to take charge of the organization of the library this committee in the discharge of their duties visited several of the cities n which Public Libraries are in operation, and were fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Wm. F. Poole, Librarian of the Public Library of Cincinnati to assist them; lists of books were prepared by Mr. Poole, approved by the committee and placed in the hands of agents in England, Germany and at home for collection; rooms for the accommodation of the books and of readers were prepared in the High School building, and the work of organization may be said to have fairly begun: at this stage to some one occurred the "happy thought" of donating the library of the Indianapolis Library Association to the then forming Public Library; this generous purpose was as generously carried out, the entire body of stockholders uniting in transferring their collection to the public.

About the 1st of January 1873, the work of cataloguing and preparing for circulation the rapidly arriving volumes was commenced, and on the 1st of April the library was opened to the public for the registration of names, the preliminary step to the circulation of the books. On Tuesday evening April 8th occurred the formal opening of the library, the exercises of which took place in the hall of the High School building and consisted of singing by the Euterpean society, an invocation by Rev. H. R. Naylor, historical sketch of the organization of the library by Judge A. L. Roache, and addresses by Gov. T. A. Hendricks, Rev. H. A. Edson, Judge E. B. Martindale, Dr. T. B. Elliott, Prof. E. T. Cox and Rev. J. P. E. Kumler. On the following morning, April 9th, 1873, the library opened its doors for the delivery of books, with a registration showing the names of five hundred persons, a number which has increased to three thousand eight hundred and fifty persons, at the issue of this catalogue, and a total delivery in the first six months of its operations, of over fifty thousand volumes.

The number of volumes now belonging to the Public Library and included in this catalogue is twelve thousand seven hundred and ninety; eight hundred and ninety-two of which are duplicate copies of standard authors.

That the success of the library shall be only bounded by its usefulness is the ardent wish of all connected with its management; but to make it such a library as the City of Indianapolis ought to have, it needs the liberal support of all its patrons and friends who with their families daily enjoy its privileges. Many good books will be looked for in vain on its shelves and in its catalogue, and while these will be obtained as rapidly as the resources of the library will permit, this end and its usefulness might be materially aided by those who have at heart the education and advancement of the people.

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

1. The Library and Reading-rooms shall, on all secular days, be open and free to all citizens from nine o'clock A. M., to nine o'clock P. M., and on Sundays, for reading and reference only, between the same hours.

2. The Librarian, under direction of the Library Committee, shall have charge of the Library and Reading-rooms and the books and other public property therein. He is responsible for the safety of such books and property, and for the preservation of order in his department.

3. The Library and Reading-rooms shall be closed on such days as the Library Committee may direct.

4. The use of tobacco, and all conversation and other conduct not consistent with the quiet and orderly use of the Reading-rooms, is prohibited.

5. Residents of Indianapolis are entitled to use the books of the Library upon registering their names and residences, and complying with either of the following conditions:

First. Giving satisfactory security in the form prescribed by the Board of School Commissioners.

Second. Depositing three dollars and, in special cases, such further sums as the value of the book asked for may, in the judgment of the Librarian, require. For such deposit a receipt will be given.

6. The Library Committee has power to admit, for special reasons, to the use of the Library, persons not actual residents of Indianapolis.

7. Each person permitted to take books from the Library will be supplied with a card inscribed with the name and residence. If this residence is changed immediate notice must be given at the Library, and neglect to give this notice will subject the card holder to forfeiture of the card.

Hosted by Google

8. The holder of a card is entitled to one volume if octavo; and to two volumes of lesser size, being of the same work.

9. Books may be retained two weeks, and renewed for the same period. The application for renewal must be made within the first fourteen days.

10. Books of recent purchase, labeled "Seven-day Book," shall not be retained more than one week and can not be renewed.

11. Encyclopædias, dictionaries, other works of reference and illustrated books, and such others as may be considered by the Committee unsuited for general circulation, can be used only in the building.

12. All injuries to books beyond reasonable wear, and all losses, shall promptly be made good to the satisfaction of the Librarian.

13. Any one withholding a book beyond the period limited in these rules shall be fined three cents for every day over the time, and no other book shall be delivered until the fine is paid.

14. Books withheld in violation of the rules after proper notice to the delinquent, will be sent for, and to the fine will be added the expense of collection and serving notice. No book will be lent to the delinquent until such fines and charges are paid.

15. If any book is not returned within one month of serving notice, the Librarian shall proceed to collect, through the City Attorney, the value of the book, with accrued fines and other charges to date of payment.

16. Any one abusing the privileges of the Library or violating these rules shall be temporarily suspended from the enjoyment of these privileges; and the case shall be reported to the Committee for proper action thereon.

17. These regulations are subject to alteration, amendment, or revision, at the pleasure of the Board of School Commissioners.

Approved March 21, 1873.

EXPLANATIONS.

The arrangement of this catalogue is that in general use among Public Libraries; the so-called Dictionary system. Each book is entered under the author, title and subject, and the whole arranged in one alphabetical series: the exceptions to the above are anonymous works, the authors of which are unknown; works of fiction, and those having arbitrary titles which do not admit of being placed under subjects. Pseudonymous works are entered under the authors name when known, with a cross reference from the pseudonym, and under the pseudonym when the real name has not been ascertained. Titles should be looked for under the first word not an article or preposition. Subjects will be found in their alphabetical order, with a sub alphabetical arrangement of the authors on that subject. Look for a book therefor as you would for a word in the dictionary, under the author, its title, or the subject.

Names beginning with Le, La, or L., Du or Des are entered under those letters, by de or d' under the initial following this prefix. The prefix in English names is considered part of the surname; as De Foe, De Quincy.

Compound names are entered under the first part of the name; as Merle d'Aubigne, Staël-Holstein.

British noblemen are entered under their family names, reference being made to these under their titles.

A name in italics enclosed in parenthesis, following an authors name, is the pseudonym of such author; as Lewes, M. J. (George Eliot.)

The letter in the right-hand margin refers to the department, the figures before it to the number of the book in that department, and may refer to more than one volume; in case a reference is made to some particular volume of a work or series, the entry will contain an additional number, thus: 10–1,C. denotes the 1st volume of 10,C. or Spark's American biography, volume 1., 664–7,J. the shelf-mark of Homer's Iliad, translated by Cowper, refers to the 7th volume of Cowper's works, 664.J.

Hosted by Google

The following abbreviations have been employed: P. D. Public document room; L. R. Librarian's room; R. R. Reading-room; references to these departments are usually accompanied by a star (*), which denotes that the volume is not allowed to be taken from the Library. A single dash indicates the omission of the preceding heading, followed by another the omission of a subordinate heading. Other abbreviations are: n.d. for no date; ed. for editor or edited; tr. for translator or translated; pseud. for pseudonym; fol. folio; 4°. quarto; 8°. octavo; 12°. duodecimo, etc.

All persons using the Library are requested to call for the books by their shelf-marks, and not by the titles; the attendants will furnish slips on which to copy the numbers of the books desired. It is advisable to give the shelf-marks of several, to increase the chances of finding one of them in.
